

My husband and I went to a super bowl party and left the children home to watch the game with a babysitter, who unfortunately had to be under strict instructions to keep her hand on the remote to ward off offensive commercials. The half time show was beyond offensive and outrageous. Do I have to say to my children, "I'm sorry football is now only for adults." The NFL should be ashamed.